

Jose

- 1) The most suitable environment for me that I read about in Chapter one would probably be either the entrepreneurial career path, or the research/emerging technology field. My main strengths in terms of chemical engineering are a desire to solve complex problems and ability to use cross-disciplinary knowledge to attempt new ways to solve said problems, especially when in connection to chemistry.